TO MINING MEN.

Our regular Weekly Mining Review will be made up to-morrow. We hope mining men will promptly give the reporter, when he calls on them, all the reliable information they can in regard to mines. He will call but once at each mine. Information will be received at this office until three o'clock in the afternoon of each Saturday.

DASTARDLY OUTRAGE.

Attempt to Violate the Person of a Young Girl.

We have received the particulars, from a source of unquestionable credibility, of a bold and dastardly attempt, three or four days ago, to violate the person of a young girl, 14 years of age. The occurrence took place in Panaca Valley, near Rose. The daughter of a poor and respectable widow, who was employed in a family near her mother's, went, with a still young girl, to a candy-pulling party given at the house of one of the neighbors. Returning, a little after dark, they described, as they approached home, the form of a man, which quickly disappeared in the shadow of some cedars among which their path led. When they reached the point where the man was first seen, the older girl was seized by one of her legs and dragged down and under a tree, beneath which the villain had concealed himself. He tried, by clapping his hand over her mouth, to prevent an outcry; but she gave several loud shrieks before he had made a success of this part of his diabolical programme, which, with the frantic yells of her young companion, as she ran, attracted the attention of those within the house, who hurried to the spot, arriving in time to prevent the ruffian from accomplishing his hellish design. The victim, being in feeble health, received such a shock to her nervous system that it was necessary to have watchers at her bed-side all the ensuing night. As might have been expected, the affair created intense excitement in the section of its occurrence, and if the perpetrator had been caught he would certainly have been lynched. There are still hopes of capturing him.

SNAKE VALLEY.—This is the name of a prosperous and flourishing agricultural settlement about a hundred miles north of Pioche, in the neighboring county of Nye, the trade of which promises to become a matter of importance to us. There are now from fifteen to twenty families in the settlement, besides quite a number of bachelor ranchmen, and new locations are being constantly made. There are a number of copious springs in the valley, affording ample irrigating facilities; and conveniently near is a canyon filled with small timber, from which an abundance of fencing material can be procured. A saw-mill is being negotiated for; and a school district will soon be organized. We get these facts from Mr. Barrett, of Barrett & Ferguson, stock-raisers in the Snake Valley. As it is only one hundred miles from there here, by a good natural road, and over two hundred to the county seat of Nye, by an almost impassable one, Snake Valley should be made a part of Lincoln county.

AN UNTRUSTWORTHY SCHOOL TEACHER. A man named Mitchell, employed as a school teacher by the good people of Rose and Eagle Valleys, which position he had been filling one month, announced, on the pretext of indisposition, a few days' vacation, and came to Pioche. Here he got on a spree, sold the saddle, and was trying to sell the horse, when a settler of the school district arrived and summarily put an end to the rascally proceedings by reporting the facts and taking charge of the horse. The property was borrowed of a poor invalid. There is an opening for another school teacher out in Rose and Eagle Valleys, but if the applicant is addicted to drinking, he had better have his vest pocket filled with cloves when he calls on the directors to make the engagement.

We suggest that if business men opposite each other would unite in having crossings made, they would soon be reimbursed by an increase of patronage.

PROGRESS OF THE SOUTHERN ROAD.

Pioche Must Become a Railroad Center

We have been shown, and read with interest, a letter in regard to the progress being made on the Southern Trans-Continental Railroad, written by ex-Governor Throckmorton, of Texas, and addressed to Captain Messic—now here on professional business. Governor Throckmorton writes very hopefully of the great enterprise. He says that, within a few weeks previous to the date of the letter, over two hundred miles of the Trans-Continental and Texas and Pacific roads had been graded, ties got out and distributed, and bridging done, ready to receive the iron—that several cargoes of iron were en route from Galveston to Dallas and Longview—and that track-laying was to commence at those points and at Sherman within thirty days. Five hundred miles, or near that, of the two lines connecting at Fort Worth, had been put under contract, and to be completed by the first of next November. "After that," writes the Governor, "the whole energy of the company will be put on the main trunk westward, and it will be completed within four and a half years." So, by the summer of 1886, the traveler can leave the Pacific coast and go directly through Texas, visiting Galveston, New Orleans, Memphis, Cairo or St. Louis, without change of cars.

And who can doubt that at that time Pioche, her inexhaustible silver veins, sending into the cosmical channels of trade and commerce from ten to fifteen millions of bullion annually, and sustaining a population of from twelve to fifteen thousand, will be more favored with facilities of communication than she would be if located directly on either of the trans-continental lines? Utah's population being, in the main, agricultural, and shut out, by geographical position, from profitable competition in the general markets of both the Atlantic and Pacific, she must extend a branch of the Utah Southern to this point—the question of doing so is almost one of life or death with her producers south of Salt Lake City; and, fully realizing the fact, her capitalists are bending every energy to consummate the connection at the earliest day. Then, our business relations being now more intimate and exchanges more extensive with the Central Pacific than the Union Pacific, Pacific interests will demand, and soon secure, the completion of the competing line from Palisade or Toano, by way of Hamilton and Eureka.

Will the Directors of the Southern road and capitalists of the Gulf cities passively see these two great arms stretching out, one to the northeast and the other to the northwest, and dividing between them the whole of the rich and important trade of Southeastern Nevada?—the very heart and center, as we may reasonably hope it will be, of the mineral wealth of the continent? Far from it; the construction of the two northward-bearing roads will as certainly stimulate the early construction of a branch line, by way of St. George, to tap the Texas and Pacific road at the crossing of the Colorado, as the construction of the Utah branch will necessitate the Palisade and Hamilton line. And then, with Pioche the center of such powerful competitive interests, the promising contiguous camps developed, and in the hands of moneyed corporations, local trade will justify, if not demand, a directly southern route to the extensive salt and iron deposits on the Big Canyon, and from thence on to Sacramento Mining District, in Arizona.

None, acquainted with our geographical position, our mineral resources, and present and prospective commercial relations, can doubt that Pioche is destined to become, at no distant day, an important railroad center.

SAVE THE TREES.—We notice some house-owners, who live in the suburbs, are cutting away the cedars in front of and around their residences. This seems to us to amount almost to vandalism—considering that the cedar is the only thing growing in this vicinity in the shape of a tree, and that there is little hope of ever replacing those destroyed by transplanting others; and then, are not our mountain cedars, knarled and dwarfed as they are, truly ornamental, with their fadeless foliage and pale, blue berries? Save the trees; and if you cannot appreciate them yourself, the future occupant of the homestead will thank you for having done so.

IN THE JUSTICE'S COURT.—Mr. Shay, who originally plead not guilty to the charge of disturbing the peace, was allowed to withdraw that plea, pleaded guilty, and was fined one dollar and costs. Paid the bill and took his departure with an air of importance which seemed to indicate that he was no common, one-horse Shay, but a whole team. We hope he will pull in the right direction hereafter. James King, arrested, night before last, by officer Woodruff, appeared and plead guilty, paying the usual bill for his frolic—one dollar and costs. This was the first appearance of James, and we trust it will be the last. His general appearance is in his favor.

THE WIND-UP, PROBABLY.—Meadow Valley street was last night the scene of much gaiety. Old and young, male and female, thronged the incline plane of the street, with everything in the shape of sleds or sleighs, determined to get as much fun as possible out of what was left of the great snow fall. The sport continued until near midnight. This is probably the wind-up of the "coasting" business for the season—unless we have more snow storms.

FLORAL MILL.—The mechanics are doing the final work on the Floral Mill—engines, stamps and amalgamating pans are all in order and ready to be put in motion—and C. H. Light, the Superintendent, assures us that next Sunday or Monday, at the furthest, milling will commence. Hundreds of tons of ore are ready on the ground, mostly from the Hermes and Huhn & Hunt lodes.

Tax proprietors of the Floral mill, fearing a continuance of the epizootic, will continue to have ore brought in as fast as possible. They desire to have enough on the ground, when they start up, to run a month at least.

AN INATE JURY.—Day before yesterday, in the District Court, in the trial of State vs. Perry, Court was adjourned about noon for lunch; but the jury were not dismissed. The doors were locked. For three mortal hours they sat in their seats, the only persons in the Court-room. At 3 o'clock the Sheriff appeared and made proclamation opening Court. The Judge and bar were about to proceed with the business before them, when Mr. Knight, of Rose Valley, foreman of the jury, came to his feet and inquired for the law under which they were kept in close confinement, without anything to eat, when all others were allowed to eat their regular lunches, besides having an hour or two to smoke their cigars. "He got away with it," recess was ordered until the jury got their dinner. His Honor got even on the last time, however, by holding a night session.

We have been shown some very rich ore from a ledge called "Star of the Union." It is about two miles west of town. The proprietors are energetically developing it. Shouldn't be surprised to hear of continuous locations between here and Highland ere long.

TO ARRIVE TO-DAY.—The following passengers left Hamilton yesterday for Pioche, who will arrive on to-day's stage: A. Cohn, Dr. Lee and wife, Gus Crookman, W. H. Harrington, W. Johnson, Mrs. N. Thomas, H. W. Douglass.

There is a family of three members in Pioche—one male and two females—the combined weight of which is 605 pounds. They are not suffocated with fat, either, but are models of muscular development.

Gay time among the demi-monde last night—masquerade—silken tide of iniquity from Main street to Lacour, etc. That's what our devil said; and the devil is the best authority in such matters.

FOUND GUILTY.—In the case of the State vs. Perry, indicted for grand larceny, the jury brought in a verdict of guilty. Perry will appear for sentence to-morrow.

NOTWITHSTANDING the rapid disappearance of the snow, at least one fire was kept running in each blacksmith shop yesterday, shoeing sleds for "coasting."

FULL LOAD COMING.—Travis & Co.'s Hamilton stage will be in this evening with a full load of passengers—the names of whom will be found elsewhere.

Another water-cart appeared yesterday. They will probably be out in full force again before the roads become dry and dusty.

EMBRACE the opportunity of meeting your sweetheart at the gate, these beautiful moonlit evenings.

WORKMEN are busily engaged roofing the new brick block of Mr. Hanley, on Meadow Valley street.

MERCHANTS report increasing activity in the country trade, notwithstanding the horse disease.

TORRENTS of water flowed down the streets yesterday, caused by the melting of the snow.

A Pioche dog has been trained to the "coasting" business, and enjoys the fun hugely.

We notice placards on Main street for freight to Bullionville.

The report of the Grand Jury will appear in our next.

Nights clear, but not very cold.

The epizootic is subsiding.
